County Chairman Writes An Appreciative Letter

County Chairman Bennett F. Keihl has written the secretary of the Young Men's Republican club of Monessen a lengthy letter showing his appreciation of the great interest that is being taken locally for a Republican victory at the general election Tuesday, November second. Mr. Keihl says the word has gone forward over the county and it is having its rejuvinating effect elsewhere. He praises the young men of Monessen for their activity and interest and energy and closes by saying the Republican organization appreciates the loyalty of the town.

More than six hundred voters have signed the membership paper signifying their intention of voting the straight Republican ticket and using their influence for a victory against the Democratic opposition. All of the Republican nominees who have visited the town are pleased with the activity locally in the interest of a victory.

The reception which will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 28th for the candidates will be for the purpose of having the voters come in personal contact with the men who are to become our next county officials and to form a stronger relationship between the town and those men, and to assure them of our united support. Indications point to the biggest Republican vote in the history of Westmoreland county.

In addition to the nominees for county office, the local nominees for council, school director and justice of the peace will be present and assist in making the affair a success. Full details will be announced later.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

At a nicely appointed reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Weinberger on Schoonmaker avenue yesterday, the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Paula Weinberger to Harry Harris of this city, was announced. The engagement will terminate in a wedding during the holidays. Miss Weinberger is a member of the Young Ladies Hebrew association of the Monongahela valley and has a host of friends in this city. Mr. Harris conducts a meat market here and is numbered among the successful young business men of the community. Over two hundred friends of the contracting parties were present from all surrounding towns and from Philadelphia, Boston and New York.

Monessen Wins In Fast Game

In perhaps the most interesting and exciting game of the season, Monessen battered the Donora defenses for atotal of 26 points while their opponents were unable to pierce the local defense for a single tally. The game took place Saturday afternoon at Page park.

About a hundred loyal rooters accompanied the Donora team and as soon as the teams appeared on the field, a rooting contest took place which added much interest to the game.

Monessen had the goal posts trimmed in their colors and never did a team battle more valiantly to keep their goal line from being crossed than did the locals during the entire game. The game was by no means easy, as the score might indicate, but from the beginning, no one doubted what the outcome would be. At no time during the contest was the local offense successfully checked, while the defense at critical stages proved impregnable.

The thing most in evidence in the local team was the machine like precision with which each player carried out his work. The Monessen line was far superior to their opponents, frequently opening great holes through which the backs rushed without opposition. Occasionally the forward pass was used successfully, but both teams resorted largely to straight football.

The attendance was the largest that has attended a football game here for years and everybody reported that they had received more than their money's worth.

While each player should be given credit for their superb playing, special attention is called to the exceptional ability of the backfield, and especially to the work of Preston, who was called on time and again to make up the distance on the final down and responded nobly. He was perhaps the individual star for the locals, while Full Back Sprowls of Donora, made all gains for the visitors.

On Friday, Oct. 29, the team will meet the strong McKeesport team on the latter's grounds. This is considered one of the hardest games on the schedule and if the locals win this game, they will have good prospects of finishing the season with a clean slate. The lineup:

Newhouse, C	Bindy, C
Hess	Heater
Saro-Wild	Kerk
McQuaide	Toph
Eller-Ingram	Sweeney
Miller	Dumbar
Boag	Hill
Williams	Chambour
McKinley	Koehl
Frazier	Koehler
Preston	Sprowls

Touchdowns — Frazier, Williams, Preston. McKinley. Goals from touchdown, McKinley, 2. Referee—O'Neil.

GOOD ATTRACTION AT THE STAR

Manager McShaffrey of the Star theatre, has arranged a special program for this evening, at which time the new pipe organ will be dedicated. In addition to special selections on this wonderful instrument, W. P. Temmey, the famous bariton of Pittsburgh, will render several vocal selections. The big special picture for this evening is "Dr. Rameau." This is a modern society drama featuring Jean Sothern, Stewart Holmes, Dorothy Bernard and George Allison. All patrons and friends of the Star should be present this evening as "Mack" has a rare treat in store not only in moving pictures but also in the musical program

Big Attendance of Teachers Here

Over two hundred school teachers of Westmoreland county augmented by a large delegation from the Belle Vernon and Charleroi schools assembled here Saturday to attend the meeting of the county teachers' association, and enjoyed the interesting program which was carried out in full with the exception of the address by Prof Hirshberger of New Kensington, who could not be present. In his place Principal Rice of the West Newton schools and Miss Lytle of Parnassus gave interesting talks.

In the afternoon nearly 500 people assembled in the auditorium of the new High school building and enjoyed the program which included an address by President F. W. Hinnitt of W. & J. college. His talk was interesting not only to the teachers, but all other people who were present. Supt. Robert C. Shaw of the Westmoreland county schools, also gave an interesting address.

The students of the domestic science department of the school, served a dainty lunch at the noon hour. The next meeting will be held at Greensburg, December 4th.

Alleged Church Collector Arrested By Local Police

Wasil Lutak, carrying all the credentials of a collector for a Herminie church, arrived in town Saturday in an attempt to secure funds. He had added quite a few names and a small amount of money when he struck a crowd of men of another denomination near Fourteenth street. They refused to contribute to his cause and Wasil promptly pulled a gun in an effort to convince them they should come across. The men took the revolver from him and called the police, and at the hearing this morning, Mr. Lutak was compelled to pay a fine of $7.00 and leave his gun with the Burgess.

Polly Liski, an old timer at the police station, was arrested twice on Saturday, and this morninf, paid a fine of $5.00 and costs, amounting in all to $7.00. James Hanley made his first appearance and made such an appeal to the burgess that he was discharged. Alexander Malimen was drunk again, but got a discharge, as he is a poor worker.

Edward Cochran of the Weary Willie type, finished a five day sentence on Friday, but came back to town Saturday night filled with booze. He was again sentenced to five days on the streets, but refused to work and the sentence was changed to 30 days in Greensburg. His partner, John Dunn will work five days on the streets.

Band Concert

All arrangements have been completed for the band concert to be held in the auditorium of the new High school building Friday evening, November 5, by the Louhi band. Director Wahlstrom has arranged a most interesting program for the occasion, and with the addition of the celebrated soloist from Pittsburgh, lovers of good music are promised a rare treat. By special arrangement, Miss Helena Bashcopp, the soloist at the Carnegie Hall has been secured for this evening and she will render several selections. Tickets have been distributed among the school children and business men of the town and all are urged to secure a ticket and be present, as the proceeds are to be used for the local public library fund, a worthy cause to which all should be willing to subscribe.

Local Player Holds His Famous Record

James Herron, the former local High school lad, was the individual star in the football game between the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday. Throughout the game he came into the limelight with his wonderful tackling and on one occasion, after Berrym, the Pennsylvania star had broken away to a clear field, Herron rushed up from behind and saved the game for his team by a wonderful tackle. He recovered several fumbles and broke through on an attempted kick and tackled his man for a 19 yard loss. Many critics, who were present at the game stated had it not been for the speedy left end's wonderful playing, the Pitt team might have suffered her first defeat of the season.

The big game of the year for Pitt will be staged at Forbes Field, November 6th, when they meet the W. & J. college team. W. & J. defeated them last season and so far this season have gone through without a defeat and a great contest is expected. Several hundred fans will leave here on that date to witness the game and will use all their energy in rooting for the local lad.

Birthday Party

A birthday surprise party was given in honor of Miss Rosalie Schoffstall at her home on Morgan avenue, Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Schoffstall had charge of the arrangements and were assisted by the Misses Violet Schoffstall, Mary Rhine and Ebba Anderson. Many beautiful gifts were received. The evening was enjoyably spent in music and games. At a late hour lunch was served, after which the guests departed for their homes wishing Miss Schoffstall many more happy birthdays.

Build Your Air Castles

Stick to your dream, boy. Let nothing swerve you from the path that leads upward toward the fulfillment of your life's ambition. You will meet with difficulties and discouragements, but when you do, just think of the man, Herreshoff, the boat builder, who died the other day in Rhode Island. In his life you ought to find inspiration enough to lift you over any obstacle.

A writer in one of our exchanges says that when John B. Herreshoff was a boy, his ambition was to design and build the fastest boats in the world. He became blind while yet a boy. That would have discouraged any ordinary boy, for how could a blind man design a model that he could not see? But Herreshoff was no ordinary boy. He stuck to his dream. The heavy handicap of blindness only made him press all the harder.

The blind boy sat in eternal darkness and whittled out his models. Gradually there developed in his fingers a muscle sense that was worth more to him than eyesight would have been. Slipping the model of a boat through his hands he could tell how it should be shaped to slip through the water with the least resistance. Other designers figured out their models by complex mathematical calculations. But the blind boy felt with his sensitive fingers, and his models were the best, for when he was twenty-four years old, he built the fastest yacht the world has ever known and, while he could not see the boat go, he felt the dash and plunge and swiftness of it, and he wept when they told him his boat had won the race.

He built the yachts Vigilant, Defender, Columbia, Reliance, that conquered the series of shamrocks in the races for the American cup. He built up a great constructional industry. The government of his own country went to him for torpedo boats. The fame of the blind designer of fast boats spread round the world and England, Russia and Italy gave him contracts for their fastest torpedo boats. He died a few days ago, a wealthy man and better than that, a successful man, for he had stuck to his boyhood's dream and achieved it fully.

How Much For Affection

What is the value of the affection and support of the average husband? Will the valuation be raised or lowered when women shall sit in the jury box? These are pertinent questions projected into the public prints by the verdict rendered in the alienation suit of Mrs. Eleanor Bockus of Philadelphia, against a salesgirl who was a fellow employe with Mr. Bockus in a department store. The jury after long deliberation pared down the $5,000 claim of Mrs. Bockus and awarded her a scant $100. The husband, it appears, disappeared and an attempt will be made to collect the verdict from the salesgirl.

Bockus was described by witness as an "average husband" before he became infatuated. He attended to the chores about the house, answered "present" at meal times and stayed at home evenings with only such occasional visits to the lodge and the bedside of a sick friend as feminine credulity and masculine privilege warrant it. After he had met the fascinating salesgirl his home duties were neglected according to his wife. All the indications of love sickness were present. He lost his appetite and was wont to wander forth of nights.

The young woman to whom he paid court testified that she did not at first know he was married, that she did not seek his company and that it was at most a one-sided infatuation. When she learned that he was married, she advised him to return home.

The question that the jury answered by its verdict was: How much is the love of such a man as Bockus worth to his wife? The jury set the value at $100. Many persons, and among them many wives, will argue that the amount is excessive. They will argue that she is well rid of him. The lesson to the salesgirl, quite apart from the $100 verdict against her, is a severe one. It emphasizes anew the necessity that young women should know the characters and connections of every man who is seriously attentive to them.

Heavy Tonnage Was Shipped

A. R. Kennedy, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Steel company, yesterday testified that the tonnage of iron ore shipped from Lake Erie ports to th Pittsburgh district was much greater than the combined tonnage of iron ore shipped to other consuming districts in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, when he appeared before Examiner Alfred G. Haggerty of the Interstate Commerce Commission as a witness in the iron ore rate case hearing. The hearing which was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, Keenan building, consumed the entire day.

Mr. Kennedy said that during the years 1909 to 1914, inclusive, 65,724,836 gross tons of iron ore were shipped from Lake Erie ports to the Pittsburgh district. This tonnage, he said, constituted 44.08 per cent. of the tonnage shipped to the four districts during the same period.

C. E. Hildun, auditor of freight accounts of the Erie Railroad company, and R. F. Kelley, general freight agent of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad company, also testified.

At a hearing in the complaint of the Monessen Southwestern Railway company last night, in which that road seeks compensation for service rendered the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie company, Mr. Kennedy said the plaintiffs were being discriminated against by the defendants. Examiner Haggerty instructed the complainants to file their brief with the commission November 22 and the defendants to file their brief Dec. 7.

DRUGS HARD TO GET

While the public is grumbling at the corner druggist at the enormous increase in the price of drugs and chemicals, and knows in a general way that the increase is due to the war, it has little conception of the actual increase in cost to the druggist and the trouble in obtaining necessary supplies. In some instances the price of drugs has increased 1,000 per cent.

The druggist in turn has complained to the wholesaler, the wholesaler has importuned, cajoled and attempted to force the manufacturer to furnnish larger supplies and keep prices lower, but the manufacturer has turned in vain to the importer for these supplies. Drugs simply cannot be had at former prices, nor in their usual quantities. The war is the cause.

A few illustrations of the increase in prices. Quinine which, before the war, could be purchased wholesale at 30 cents an ounce now sells for $2 an ounce. Gum tragacanth, from which the best of paste is made as well as being used for other chemical purposes, sold before the war at 85c a pound. Today it sells for $2. This is due largely to the fact that the bark from which it is made comes largely from India and the usual sales in London and Amsterdam have been stopped.

Glycerine has advanced from 22 to 56 cents a pound. This advance has come in the last two weeks owing to an embargo by France and other beligerent countries on its export. The crude gylcerine produced in France is being used in the manufacture of explosives.

Carbolic acid has increased 1,000 per cent. from 16 cents to $1.75 a pound. Permanganate of potash has risen from 12½c a pound to $1.25. Practically every drug used in compounding the ordinary prescription had increased enormously.

The rise in the cost of ordinary aspirin tablet and the restriction on the amount obtainable at one time, was due to the fact that a German company controls the patent and is making the tablet itself. Up until a week ago a druggist was unable to purchase more than 100 five grain tablets in one order. Consequently the retailer limited his sales to a dozen to a single customer.

Salol formerly sold at $1 a pound. Now it brings $7. It was explained that bromide of potash had increased in price from 40c to 50c a pound to $4.25 and $5 a pound. There is no potash in the United States unless the recent alleged discovery in the West proves true. Of the various bromides, as well as of potash the German government controls the main source of supply and has formed a government monopoly. It is believed to be using fromine gas in the manufacture of high explosive shells.

Not only has the price of imported drugs increased, but even the domestic drugs have gone up. This is due to the export from America of these domestic products to European nations, their ordinary supplies having diminished.

Overland Stood Test

In a test recently conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of London, England, a Model 83 Overland touring car covered a distance of 75.5 miles over a rolling country, on three and three quarters gallons of gasoline.

The test was held under the observance of the Royal Automobile Club, an organibzation officially representing all motor interests in the United Kingdom.

It is to this organization that the various manufacturers appeal when any question is raised as to the merits or capabilities of their product. Any decision handed down by this goverfning body is accepted as final by al parties concerned.

The Overland used for the test was selected from a stock of 44 new cars that had just been received by the London distributor. The officials in charge were present when the car was unboxed and noted the time consumed in making carburetor and other necessary adjustments. This amounted to three minutes and 39 seconds.

In the course of the run the car had a combination of up and down hill work. The result of 20.13 miles per Imperial gallon or 29 ton miles per Imperial gallon of gasoline is considered an exceptionally good performance, in view of the fact that the car was brand new and practically no time was allowed in making adjustments or preparing it for the trial.

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREAMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The Broken Coin

A Story of Mystery and Adventure

By EMERSON HOUGH

From the Scenario by Grace Cunard

(Copyright, 1915, By Wright A. Patterson)

Novelized From the Motion Picture Drama of the Same Name. Produced by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

"See here, my good men," said he when he had them aside. "As I fancy, we are all interested in making money—is it not true?"

A grin made the answer of the two sailors, who stood expecting some gratuity.

The gratuity came—it fell into their hands—in gold—and in large pieces! They stood dumfounded and speechless for the moment, but Sachio went on:

"Listen, men," said he "There are two spies here in the city, a man and a young woman. They are dangerous to our country. They are our prisoners—we took them in the assault on Gretzhoffen in the recent war between these two countries They are both Americans. I know how much your country loves Americans—you can guess how much I love them."

"True, true," said one of the men. "That is right We know them—those Americans!"

"Precisely," resumed the nobleman. "Now, we must get these spies out of this country secretly. They refuse to take passage. Very well—we will book it for them then And see, I pay you the passage money instead of paying it to the ship's purser. Somewhere in the hold you could watch them, could you not, men? None will be the wiser, and you will be the richer. What then, my hearties?"

His hearties hesitated for a moment, but at length agreed with him. "Why then," said the spokesman 'I suppose"—and once more they looked at the gold pieces in their hands

"There is not the least danger in the world about it," said the strange man who had thus accosted them. "You are committing no crime, but are doing this country a service. These two spies will be brought here to the dock just before the ship sails There is some confusion—but they get aboard—they are hoisted from the dock into the hold, where they will be safe. Very good, the vessel sails. She is at sea one day, two days Then all at once there is hue and cry—stowaways discovered—two of them. Very well, that is all. They tell their story, but the captain of the ship thinks them to be stowaways and nothing else. They have the look of such As such they will be landed in due time—at New York Their passage money is paid not to the ship but to you yourselves—more than you would make for six months' wages. And besides that, you have done a good service to our country, which is far more friendly to your own, my hearties, than that America to which these spies must be deported What say you, then? It is a bargain?"

It seemed that it was to be a bargain.

CHAPTER LXX.

A Broken Voyage.

Alone in his palace, Count Frederick paced up and down, engrossed in futile plans. After many hours, an attendant announced the arrival of one of the emissaries he had sent to follow Count Sachio.

"Excellency," began his servant agitatedly—"quick, or we shall be too late"

"What now—why too late—what has happened? Tell me, men!" Count Frederick was none too gentle in his moods of anger.

"They have taken her prisoner—they plot to ship her away today—toinght—now, for all I know!"

"What are you saying, man? But you found her, then?"

"Found where she is, or was. As you suspected, she was taken prisoner by Count Sachio and carried to Grahoffen. I followed him. He went to the docks and bargained there with some fellows of an ocean steamer due to sail within an hour or so I heard them agree to take over a prisoner, a woman—another prisoner, a man. Count Sachio said he would deliver them just before the vessel sailed. They were to be hid in the hold and discovered later as stowaways too late for return."

"Quick, men." He turned now to his assistants "Hasten to the shipping offices on our own dock. Have them make ready a boat to carry my message to the captain of the royal yacht. Tell him to make ready to sail at once on my arrival—and to expect a race with an ocean liner."

A few moments later he was at the dock and, hurrying into the small boat which lay awaiting, was carried swiftly to the side of the royal yacht, on whose decks already there was evidence of the orderly confusion of a boat about to get under way. Evidently his message to the captain of the yacht had been received

"Come on board, sir!" said Count Frederick, as the captain met him at the ladder. "You understand?"

"Your servant, Count Frederick," said the commander. "I know you well. Command us"

"Under way at once then, captain," said Count Frederick. "Lay a course to the foot of the bay. The vessel we must search has perhaps even now sailed from Grahoffen port. It is our duty in the name of the king to intercept her. They have on board prisoners of our own people—there has been treachery done by Sachio, leader of Grahoffen."

An instant, and the jangle of the engine-room bells made sweet music to Count Frederick's ears. At least now there would be action, at least suspense would be at on end

The speedy yacht ripped through the water as though conscious itself of its imperative duty. Ere long they had passed the lower headlands of the Gretzhoffen harbor. Eagerly Frederick scanned the levels of the sea as they opened before him. At last an exclamation escaped his lips. A long and heavy cloud of smoke lay on the horizon, the trail of a great ship making for open sea

"Captain, there she goes! A thousand napoleons if you lay us alongside—dishonor if you fail to do so." And the captain nodded.

Meantime what was the secret that the distant liner was carrying with her? None save those aboard could tell that, and of these but two or three rude deck men The bought agents of Sachio had done their work well. None on the ship save those interested had noticed when two bundles, trussed up and concealed in heavy coverings, had been hoisted aboard by the ship's donkey engine and dropped into the hold. Yet in this way two human beings were loaded as cattle, without the knowledge of the ship's officers.

When Kitty Gray recovered her senses she found herself in a dark and noisome hole, she knew not where. Terror smote her. Her pulses refused to work, her mind rebelled

Above she heard tramplings, shoutings, the creaking of tackle, the sound of machinery muffled by intervening walls of the ship's structure. At last she thought she heard the swash of water alongside. What did this mean—was this the sea? Was she a prisoner to be handled in some new and mystifying way? What did it all mean?

A faint light came from high above, where the hatchway yet remained open. She saw it all now—she was in a ship's hold, and beyond all aid. She called out, but got no answer. Exhausted by her fruitless efforts, at last she flung herself down upon a nearby bundle—and stared up again with a shriek of terror!

The bundle beneath her had stirred—moved—yes, she was sure of that! It moved again Terrified as she was, she stooped and cut the thongs which bound the neck of the long bag of jute

There appeared to her gaze the tousled head and livid face of her friend Roleau! Without her knowledge he had been hoisted in with her and left to live or die, as he chose, bound tight in a bag which gave him little enough chance for air.

Kitty gave a cry of delight and dismay mingled as she bent above her friend. He was half unconscious, unable to speak, because tightly gagged She aided him and freed him as she might. The air, bad as it was, presently began to revive the sufferer.

"Excellency," said he at last, "excellency, it is you! And where are we?"

"I do not know, Roleau," said she "I can only guess. We are somewhere in the hold of some ship. We must have been smuggled here, for what purpose I do not know. It may be we shall be carried out to sea. How then can we escape?"

The boat now was far from the dock in the lower bay of Grahoffen harbor. Under full way, she was headed for the open sea. The executive officer came to the captain in his office, and the latter turned upon him an inquiring eye.

"Steam yacht on our starboard quarters, sir," said the latter, "going fast, flying signals for us to slow down so he may come aboard."

"Come aboard—when we are under way and two hours back of our sailing hour? A pest take these little states which are fighting this cat and dog war! We have nothing to do with that—and I warrant it yonder stranger has."

"What orders, sir?"

"Straight ahead, and full speed."

"Very good, sir."

"What is the hour, Judson?" demanded the captain as the executive turned away.

"Four bells, sir."

"Make it so" And thus in nautical terms the voyage of the Prinz Adler was begun.

Begun, but not ended. Begun, but soon to be broken. The fast yacht swerved slightly and headed on such an angle as would intercept the liner's course. She sailed a splendid gait, her clean-cut bows rising black above the waves as now and again she leaped from one crest to another in her desperate speed. Some man was driving her who had a purpose; that was plain.

The captain himself went on deck as he heard the sound of a distant shot. It had come from the yacht's bow gun, a formidable looking black piece which might carry iron enough to sink a helpless liner.

"The damned pirate!" exclaimed the captain. A second report, a second plunge of white ahead gave him warning that it was time to halt.

"He'll sink us if we don't slow down," muttered the captain. His hand went out to the engine-room switchboard. A third shot gave evidence enough of the yacht's intentions. Once more the engine bells jangled far below. The order had come to slow down, to reverse. The giant liner trembled, half paused, slowly slacked her speed, and at last lay purring, even as the yacht swung swiftly alongside.

"What do you want?" called the captain of the Prinz Adler, addressing a tall figure which stood at the bow of the yacht. "What do you mean by stopping my ship?"

"Send me a boat at once," was his only answer. "I will explain when I come aboard. Hesitate and you may regret it."

Feeling under this the threat which may or may not have been meant in faith, but which served none the less, a ship's boat put out to the yacht and brought Count Frederick aboard He at once made his way to the captain, whom he addressed brusquely.

"You have persons aboard this ship who are fugitives from justice. I come in our king's name to search you before you leave the three mile limit of our own waters. Perhaps you are ignorant of these facts yourself. Lay to, while we try to get the information confirmed for you. I know they are on board."

They were indeed on board, but none knew of their presence Far beneath the lowest deck of the ship the guilty deck hands had met their prisoners and sought to use such arguments as they could find to induce their silence.

As for Roleau, he would hear to nothing. The joy of combat once more came to his soul. He fell upon these seamen, and weak as he still was waged such battle that at last they fled Kitty and himself followed them. Almost they gained the freedom of the upper deck.

But what could a weak woman do against such odds—or even Roleau? Even as Count Frederick's boat came alongside, and as he stood conferring with the ship's captain, the two prisoners who made the subject of the controversy were left in such case as might very well prove the captain's assertion that he had on board no passengers save such as ship's passenger list showed and had a right to show.

Neither Kitty nor Roleau had knowledge of what went on. Both had been laid senseless.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

In short—This week's program: —

MONDAY—The 17th part of "The Broken Coin" in two reels—"The Castaways." The sensational destruction of an ocean liner by a boiler explosion, the fight for life in the wreckage and the washing ashore of Kitty on a strange island, inhabited by savages. These are a few of the thrilling incidents of the 17th episode. "A Bath House Tragedy." L KO comedy with Peggy Pearch, 2 reels. "Some fix or Another." Nestor comedy with Ed Lyons and Lee Moran, and Mariana Laemles drama with Yona Landowska and Daddy Manley.

TUESDAY—The first Pathe feature in five reels "The Galloper," featuring Clifton Crawford, supported by Melville Stewart, Fania Marinoff and Rlye Alexander. Everyone of our patrons know what pictures the Pathe company produced. We had Pathe's "Exploits of Elaine," "New Exploits of Elaine" and "The Romance of Elaine" We had the 12 wonderful vital questions of mankind, "Who Pays?" and there was not even one subject on the entire Pathe program which was not fine. So with a full confidence we come right out and advise all our patrons to attend very close these Pathe productions. They are indeed everyone of them very instructive and pleasing. The next picture on Tuesday is "The Kiss of Dishonor," a Universal drama with Jane Nova and Ronald Bradburry. Also "Bashful Glen," a comedy.

WEDNESDAY— Another wonderful day, and when we say wonderful, we mean what we say, and we understand the meaning of the word wonderful thoroughly. We have at last after 36 weeks of wandering adventures, expenditures, expeditions and thrilling acts of the beautiful Pearl White, her triumph and the disclosure of the mysterious Mr. X. The last of this episode discloses a surprise, better relished on the screen. Suffice to say that it is a fitting end to one of the biggest and best serial pictures that ever delighted a fastidious public, and on the same day starts the first episode of the world's famous Pathe picture, by Balboa company, the same people who made the serial "Who Pays." The name of our next serial is "Neal of the Navy." It is an innovation in serial pictures, featuring Lillian Loraine, beautiful and in the latest style of fashion, with William Courtlech, Jr., and a wonderful cast. It isn't possible to raise your hopes too high for this serial to satisfy you. On the same day, Wednesday, we have two more of the famous Universal comedies a Joker, "No Babies Allowed" with Max Asher and Gale Henry, and one of L KO's comedies, "Under New Management" a screaming comedy with the beauties, Gertrude Selby and Alice Howell, in two reels.

Thursday and Friday are so solid, so pure, that we can not say any too much about these days.

THURSDAY—Our great Broadway Universal feature "Judge Not," a great drama of western life, written by Peter B. Kyne, filmed in six great acts, featuring the Broadway Universal favorite, a beautiful and emotional actress, JULIA DEAN. The same day we have also two Universal comedies of high merit.

FRIDAY—Another wonderful day and guaranteed in every point. Popular Plays and Players present for the Metro company and they present for us, the virile American dramatic star, Emmet Corrigan in the story of a magnificient sacrifice "Greater Love Hath No Man" from the book by Frank L. Packard, in five acts. On the same day "A Kentucky Idyll," in two reels, featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, the famous actor; also one of Nestor's comedies "And the Best Man Won," featuring Billie Rhodes and Neil Burns.

SATURDAY—As usual the 23rd episode of "The Diamond From the Sky," full of thrills and adventures and wandering actions and the hope of winning the $10,000 offer. The next is "The Yellow Star," one of Bison's Universal features, the kind we have very Saturday, in three reels. Animated Weekly with the latest news and one very good comedy.

Now sit down, look over, think a little and certainly you will admit that the Olympic theatre in the small village, Monessen, in comparison with Pittsburgh, is one of the most complete theatres in America, comparing it only with Pittsburgh theatres, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago theatres, etc. And this is not boosting, bluffing or notorious advertising. It is the plain unvarnished truth, and nothing but the truth. Here it is and it can stand investigation and comparison at any time from any one if he is the queerest person living upon the face of the earth.—Olympic.

—Mrs. Hugh Dorning of Ninth street, has returned from Duquesne Heights, Pittsburgh, where she attended the funeral of her father, Mr. George Houston, who passed away in the 75th year of his age. The funeral was held yesterday.

A SCENE FROM "THE GALLOPER" (PATHE).
OLYMPIC THEATRE TOMORROW

Lillian Lorraine in the first episode of "Neal of the Navy" at the Olympic Wednesday.

NO INTEREST IN LIFE

Health Gone—Position in Danger—Both Saved By Vinol

Monessen people please do us the favor to read this letter:—

Brooklyn, N. Y., "I was completely run down, had no appetite and lost all interest in life. I thought I surely would have to give up my position. I learned of Vinol, and after taking one bottle, felt better. I have taken it for a few weeks and it has built me up and cured me. If people who feel weak, nervous and rundown would only try Vinol I know it would help them as it did me." Robert Mitchell, 1295 Herkimer stree, Brooklyn, N. Y.

This Brooklyn man's case is only additional proof of what we have been telling Monessen people for years. We claim and are continually proving that Vinol is the greatest health and trength creator for overworked and run doswn people obtainable. We will back this statement by agreeing to return anyone's money who will try it and who finds our claim not true.—Hirsch Drug Co.

Can Sell as Cheap as Any

E. M. Moyer, the jeweler, makes a challenge to the parties who uphold mail order buying. Mr. Moyer said this morning: "I wish you would tell the people of Monessen and vicinity that I will duplicate any article in my line found in any catalogue at the same price or lower than quoted in the catalogue. Tell the people to bring their catalogue to the store, select the article and I will convince them that the money they are sending out of town should be spent in Monessen. Last week a young man brought to my store a watch he paid a mail order house $19 for. I showed him the same watch, with the same name stamped on it, the same guarantee and everything the same. I had the time piece on sale in my store for $6.00. The young man got fairly sick when he found out that he had been duped out of 13 honest dollars."

Mr. Moyer will back up anything he says regarding the merchandise with regard to prices. This out of town buying is more of an educational feature. People get a catalogue, look through it and see articles and prices that appeal to them and without investigation, they send their money out of town. It is a long time coming back. Local merchants are anxious for the trade of Monessen people and they believe they are entitled to it, both from a standpoint of value and honesty. Mr. Moyer will be glad to duplicate anything in his line at catalogue prices if given the chance.

The Secret of a Good Figure
often lies in the brassiere. Hundreds of thousands of women wear the Bien-Jolie Brassiere for the reason that they regard it as necessary as a corset. It supports the bust and back and gives the figure the youthful outline fashion decrees.
BIEN JOLIE (BE-AN-JO-LEE) BRASSIERES are the daintiest, most serviceable garments imaginable. Only the best of materials are used—for instance, "Walohn", a flexible bonding of great durability—absolutely, rustless—permitting laundering without removal.
They come in all styles, and your local Dry Goods dealer will show them to you on request. If he does not carry them, he can easily get them for you by writing to us. Send for an illustrated booklet showing styles that are in high favor.

Skin Sufferers—Read!

We want all skin sufferers who have suffered for many years the tortures of disease and who have sought medical aid in vain, to read this.

We, as old established druggists of this community, wish to recommend to you a product that has given many relief and may mean the end of your misery. The product is a mild, simple wash, not a patent medicine concocted of various worthless drugs, but a scientific compound made of well known antiseptic ingredients. It is made in the D.D.D. laboratories of Chicago and is called the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

This is a doctor's special prescription—one that has effected many wonderful cures.

The effect of D. D. D. is to soothe instantly, as soon as applied; then it penetrates the pores, destroys and throws off all disease germs and leaves the skin clean and healthy.

We are so confident of the marvelous power of D. D. D. that we have taken advantage of the manufacturers guarantee, to offer you a full-size bottle on trial. You are to judge the merits of the remedy in your own particular case. If it doesn't help you, it costs you nothing.

D. D. D. Soap is made of the same healing ingredients. Ask us about it.
